The image shows two terminal windows side-by-side. The left window shows the process of removing the 'bastet' package using 'sudo apt remove bastet' and 'sudo apt purge bastet'. The right window shows the results of an 'apt search "tetris clone"' command, listing several packages including 'baste', 'ltris', and 'tint'.

A terminal window titled "Tilix: thecoon@thecoon: ~/scripts" with standard window controls. The terminal shows a prompt "thecoon@thecoon: ~/scripts$" followed by the command "bash hello.sh". The script's output is displayed on the next three lines: "Hello World", "I am learning Linux", and "This is my first shell script". The prompt "thecoon@thecoon: ~/scripts$" appears again on the fourth line, with a cursor at the end.
